PROJECT ARCHAEOLOGY

Dr. Jeanne Moe has more than 40 years of experience in archaeological fieldwork and analysis, heritage and archaeology education, and project management. She holds master's degrees in both archaeology and education and a doctoral degree in curriculum and instruction.

Kim Nessler, lead teacher of Riverbend Montessori's Upper Elementary, implemented the Project Archaeology curriculum into her classroom in 2021 after attending a Project Archaeology educator workshop. The students' curiosity about human history deepened, their critical thinking skills were enhanced, a greater respect for indigenous cultures and preserving cultural heritage was brought to life.
